

Iveta Ķestere is a Professor at the Faculty of Education Sciences and Psychology and Lead Researcher at the Scientific Institute of Pedagogy at the University of Latvia. She holds a master's degree in history and a doctorate in educational sciences from the University of Latvia. Her scholarship examines the history of education under twentieth-century European totalitarian regimes, with particular attention to the development of education sciences and the teaching profession. Drawing extensively on materialities and visual sources, she has researched the history of childhood, classroom culture, and the image of the teacher. Dr. Ķestere has published numerous articles internationally and authored or co-edited eight books. Among her most recent works is the collected volume Hour Zero—Educational Sciences in the 1950s: Central, Eastern and Southeastern Europe (Peter Lang, 2026), co-edited with Tomáš Kasper and Attila Nóbik. Dr. Ķestere has delivered invited lectures at universities in Belgium, Germany and Lithuania. Her international engagement includes board membership with the International Standing Conference for the History of Education (2011–2014) and the European Educational Research Association, Network 17 (2015–2022), and continues through her current editorial positions with History of Education, Acta Paedagogica Vilnensia, and the international advisory board of Paedagogica Historica.
