'Translation, education and pragmatics' (TEP) postgraduate symposium

February 21, 2025

Organized by

The symposium intends to encourage postgraduate collaboration and exchange of innovation and creative ideas in the field of translation studies, among (neighbouring) universities, for the time being, and aspires to expand its potential and geographical scope to include more universities and postgraduate programmes in the future.

The collaboration started as an exchange of talks at shared postgraduate sessions between Bari-Athens-Thessaloniki universities intended to balance the isolation following the second wave of the pandemic (Fall 2021). The organizers soon realized that there is more to this collaboration and thought of advancing it by organizing a postgraduate symposium on Translation, Education and Pragmatics, enhancing their interconnection and interdisciplinary potential. Both Education and Pragmatics have important insights to offer to translation studies and translation studies may vigorously return the favour by opening up a new platform and resource materials for both education and pragmatics. The postgraduate Symposium intends to explore the potential overlap of these disciplines and languages.

Speakers may address the contact person of their university to provide title of paper, affiliation and abstract, by December 31st 2024. Contact Persons will submit their proposal to the scientific committee of the Symposium.
